Huguette Clark, daughter of William A. Clark

Senator Clark was “America’s Copper King” who amassed an astronomical fortune, 100’s of millions and founded Clarkdale, AZ and Las Vegas, NV. Huguette became the single heiress to one of America’s largest fortunes and was a recluse so secretive that no new photograph of her had been seen in decades. She inherited a palatial home in CA, (100 million) and the largest apartment in NYC across from Central Park. These mansions remained empty for decades. It was Clarkdale’s smelter that provided the majority of Clark’s millions and gave his teenage daughter an allowance of $7000 per month in the 1920’s!!
